Opening today!

7.11.2021!

Development of local communities

---

Who would you like to help?

---

- Is there a specific group of people or cause you are passionate about?
- Look for projects that relate to your passion and interests.
- You may also just want to perform particular community service activities that allow you to do hobbies you enjoy, like baking or acting, and that's fine too.
- But we would like to see especially grants, which are linked to the sustainable development and further enhancement of quality of life in the region or at the your university.

What kind of impact do you want to have?

- Some people prefer to participate in community service activities that have a quantifiable impact, for example, activities where you know the specific number of kids you tutored, dollars you raised, or cans of food you collected.
- This is in contrast to activities that don't have such clear numbers, such as creating a garden or serving as a volunteer lifeguard.
- Some people prefer quantifiable activities because they feel they look stronger on college applications, or because they simply enjoy knowing their exact impact on the community.

What skills would you like to gain?

- Many community service activities can help you gain skills.
- These skills can range from teaching to medicine to construction and more.
- If there is a particular skill you'd like to learn for future classes, jobs, or just out of personal interest, you may want to see if there is a community service activity that helps you learn that skill.

General ideas

- Helping school / your university (creation of new space for students, improvement of the environment)
- Helping Senior Citizens
- Helping Animals and the Environment
- Promoting Community Enhancement
- Promoting Sustainable Development

#1: Look over your interests: Which activities seem most appealing to you? Were they mostly in one particular category, like children or the environment? If so, that's a good starting place for choosing specific organizations to contact.

#2: Figure out how much time you can devote to community service: Are you available for two hours every week? Are you not free on a regular basis but can volunteer for an entire weekend now and then?

Think about transportation as well and how you'll be able to get to different locations. Knowing this information will help you choose which community service projects to pursue, and it's helpful information for volunteer coordinators to know.

#3: Do some research to see what projects you can do in your community: Check at your school, place of worship, or town hall for more information on volunteering. You can also contact the place where you'd like to perform your community service, such as a particular animal shelter or nursing home, and ask if they take volunteers.

Opening today!

How to write a proposal?

---

- Actually, there is not much of writing!
- We are interested in particular in presentations, where you will explain your idea, methods, target audience and outputs
- And we want it in a way of audio presentation! 😊
